

He knew from TV that when in doubt
you look for the police to help you out.

He could see a doughnut store a block from his spot
and a police car was there in the parking lot.

When he reached the car no police were there,
so he climbed in the back and said, "I'll wait right here."

